Annandale Street Project

Annandale Street is a residential service based in the Govanhill area of Glasgow which provides a care home service for eight older people who are experiencing mental health problems (other than dementia). The service offers single en-suite accommodation and shared communal areas, and staffing ratios reflect the individualised care provided.

Referral Criteria

In order to be referred for admission to the home you, your doctor or your Community Psychiatric Nurse need to contact your local Social Work Office. A Care Manager will then be allocated to you and they will carry out an assessment of your needs. If you are being referred for admission, they will also carry out a financial assessment to determine how much you will pay towards the cost of living in Annandale Street Project.

After this process, and following your referral from social work, staff will arrange for you to come and visit the home. They will talk to you about the home and what happens there, and the best way to help you move into the home.

Services Offered

- Single en-suite bedrooms
- Range of activities and outings
- Enclosed shared garden area to the rear of the building
- Residents' meetings
- Individual care planning sessions
- Access to mental health services
- 24 hour support
- Flexible meal times
- Choice of menus
- Support to maintain existing community links
- Key worker system
- Designated smoking room

The project is registered with and inspected by the Care Commission. Reports are available on request.

Since moving to Annandale I can't explain how I feel, it is as if I am back in my youth and the staff have played a big part of that.
